1. Tanrei English Challenge Course Camp	2018年3月	Tanrei English camp is a two-day experience with Challenge Course students that extends the real English challenge beyond the classroom where students engage in communicative activities together.
2. Spring Break Tanrei English Challenge Course Camp	2017年3月	Challenge Course students joined the two-day English camp at MWU's Tanrei campus as part of their spring break to experience English together with their CC classmates and teachers. Interactive events helped them enjoy teamwork and group events together. Multiple types of skill building activities were included in the camp.
3. MWU Challenge Course Camp	2016年3月	During the first Challenge Course camp, all students were invited to meet together to build positive friendships with 2nd, 3rd and 4th year CC groups. Students were divided into teams for competitive events and stayed together in the student dormitory near MWU main campus.
4. LINE group communication with MWU students	2016年3月～ongoing	Communicative tools are useful for maintaining good communication with students outside of class. The use of LINE is one tool that allows student to access information about important topics, homework and other life events.
5. Communicative Competence Project with Kumamoto Gakuen University	2014年9月～2015年9月	Education department seminar students worked on projects for language content as part of their thesis paper with students from Kumamoto Gakuen University with Professor Tomei. By connecting and practicing their research skills with other Japanese students, MWU students formed clear goals and they had a strong motivation for completing their research in their final year of seminar.
6. Conversation Time Club in Azaria cafeteria	2010年9月～2014年8月	During lunch time, English discussion time was open for Education students to enjoy freestyle conversations at MWU's Azaria cafeteria. This activity connected students to each other from different departments and provided an easy way for them to use English in everyday life.
7. Teaching methodology: Communicative interactions	2009年9月～ongoing	Within the curriculum and materials introduced in an English educational framework, the experience of acquiring English is in found a collaborative learning environment. Students interact with purpose through instructional materials that promote critical thinking and language development.
8. Gonzaga University Special Event: Taste of TESOL	2002年11月	As coordinator of this event, I facilitated a forum for teachers and community members to learn about teaching English abroad and domestically in the United States. The emphasis of the event was on connecting the community to the English Second Language students studying at Gonzaga University in Spokane.

1. Vocabulary Acquisition for Intermediate Learners	単	2003年～2004年	Gonzaga University Spokane, Washington	Author: Anita Aden Researching extensively on the topic of vocabulary acquisition of ESL students, my thesis was published as a Gonzaga University document in 2004. The compilation of research findings of students' vocabulary learning methods was based on research by David Nunan and Paul Nation. The findings of this research shows how extensive reading and vocabulary acquisition are connected to increasing and retaining vocabulary language skills after a class has been completed. The results of this study supported the role of education as a critical means of retaining language skills for long term benefits.

1. Meaningful Exchanges in a Socio-Cultural Setting at MWU's International Plaza, presenter	共	2018年10月13日	ALAK: Applied Linguistics Association of Korea 40th Annual Conference Seoul, South Korea Sogang University	For many university students in Japan, there is limited opportunity to engage in meaningful conversations in the target language as a natural part of their day. The opening of a voluntary attendance program during lunch time for English discussion called Interaction Plaza is a new part of Mukogawa Women University's International Plaza. Students have the freedom to share ideas and enjoy a semi-structured language activity each week. The constructs of the socio-cultural setting are designed to encourage risk-taking in expressing opinions and develop confidence for international interactions.
